Did you know?
The University of Missouri supports over 250 faculty who are conducting diversity-related research or working in related areas on campus. Find out who they are and what they are researching at:
diversity.missouri.edu/researchers

Bridging Research & Practice Series
We, at institutions of higher education, have the unique responsibility and opportunity to contribute to a better understanding of the complexity of human experiences and integrate our academic research with the world of policy and action. This series of research-based seminars is designed to inform and engage scholars, students, and practitioners of diversity-related research at Mizzou.

Each seminar includes a 40-minute research presentation followed by a 20-minute question and answer session which offers presenters and participants an opportunity to exchange ideas. We hope this conversation will stimulate new research directions and identify practical applications.

SPRING SEMESTER 2016 SESSIONS

Race and Cultural Diversity in the Atlantic Slave Trade: Lessons from Angola
Daniel Domingues, assistant professor Department of History
Wednesday, Feb. 3, 2016
Noon to 1 p.m. S110 Memorial Union

Beyond the Rapist: Title IX, Organizational Communication, and U.S. University Responses to Sexual Violence
Kate Lockwood Harris, associate professor Department of Communication
Wednesday, March 2, 2016
Noon to 1 p.m., S110 Memorial Union

Identity, Leadership, & Success: Black Male Student Athletes at a Division 1 University
Ty-Ron Douglas, assistant professor Department of Educational Leadership & Policy Analysis
Wednesday, April 6, 2016
Noon to 1 p.m. S110 Memorial Union